Thanksgiving Day.

President Roosevelt has issued his proclamation naming Thursday, Nov. 28, as Thanksgiving.

Sometimes we feel like railing against holidays—they seem to come at such inconvenient times, when we are busy and have no time to spare. But on second thought, that is why holidays should be made useful. If this world were made only for what we call "doing business" and then holidays would be useless and senseless. We should all be glad to have these times when we are not busy and can do something for the world. But man is made for something higher than that we choose to call "business." That higher law which demands that we look out of and away from ourselves also requires that we shall not only spend labor and money, but also time for something higher than material things. This is what our executives recognize, when once a year they proclaim that the people may spend one day in giving thanks to Almighty God for His blessings. The fact that this annual festival is peculiarly an American institution is a proof that the American people are truly religious at heart. The annual American Thanksgiving is a day when we are reminded that we are not alone in this world. To make it a more religious day, for feasting and hunting and sports, is to make a heathen holiday of it. If such customs prevail the day will not last. Let us, therefore, use our influence to make it not only a family holiday but also a day of sincere thanksgiving for the mercies and blessings of Almighty God.

Northern Cumberland Agricultural Society.

The annual meeting of the Northern Agricultural Society was held at Emerson schoolhouse, South Paris, Saturday, Nov. 2, and the following business was transacted. Reports of the secretary and treasurer were heard and accepted, and following officers elected for ensuing year:

President—O. M. Chute.

Vice-presidents—R. W. Fogg and Richard Cook.

Secretary—J. Orin Ross.

Treasurer—Geo. P. Carley.

Trustees—James Thomas, Peter Jordan, C. B. Bachevalier, Joseph Allen, Frank Green, M. P. Mervin, J. C. Maxfield.

An executive committee was appointed to arrange for the next fair. James Thomas, Peter Jordan, J. C. Maxfield, Mrs. James Thomas and Mrs. Frank Green are the committee.

The society voted to let all towns outside of the county exhibit stock and other articles for premiums at the annual fairs.

Voted to change the time of holding the annual meeting from the first Saturday in November to the second Saturday following the fair.

Voted to hold the cattle show and fair in 1902 without any trotting. The society proposed to make the next fair bigger and better than ever, so extend an invitation to all adjoining towns in the county to enter.

SUMNER.

The remains of Fred W. Bisbee, son of Capt. L. Bradford Bisbee, were brought from the hospital in Portland on Thursday, Oct. 21st, to East Sumner for interment. The deceased was injured ten years ago by falling from a building upon which he was at work in Lewiston, since which time his lower limbs had been paralyzed. He had submitted to two or three surgical operations in the hope of relief and recently underwent another. The operation of itself seemed successful but other complications set in and finally death ensued. He was an excellent young man, beloved by all, and has been an object of much sympathy. The funeral services were held on Saturday.

NORTHWEST NORWAY.

J. F. Holt is away packing apples.

Susie Klunall is sick with tonsillitis.

There is considerable talk among the leading business men of Rumford Falls and Dixfield of putting in an electric line between Rumford Falls and Dixfield fair grounds.

Honorable Albert J. Beveridge, United States Senator from Indiana, has spent the past five months in the Far East. The vast amount of information secured in that hand will be the next fair bigger and better than ever, so extend an invitation to all adjoining towns in the county to enter.

A Sunday school has been started in Mexico by the Baptist church of Rumford Falls. Preaching services have been held for some time under their auspices and a Young People's Society has been formed. It is expected that a church may be organized by the Baptists of Mexico very soon.

It is recalled that during the first week in November, seven years ago, after weeks of soft skies and balmy breezes, nature broke out in one of her fits of unrestrained fury, and smote New England with snow and wind, twisting the telegraph poles, stalling steam and electric cars and seriously interfering with the regular habits of the citizens. This was an unusual convulsion, and it was felt that an unfair advantage had been taken. But even with the weather bureau watching over our interests the unexpected frequently happens.

Wit in Small Parcels.

One on the Lawyer.

Two witnesses had been rather contradictory in their statements before the jury in a recent court, in fact so much so that it did not seem possible that both could have told "nothing but the truth."

One of the lawyers in the case thus addressed the jury—"Gentlemen of the jury, you have heard what the witnesses have said, now it is for you to eliminate the truth."

Why Is a Newspaper Like a Woman?

One bright friend came in the other day with what he thought was a conundrum.

"Why is a newspaper like a woman?"

The various answers were:

"Both have to be known to be appreciated."

"Because it has to have some one to run it."

"Because both are good advertising mediums."

"Because both have to be pressed."

"Because it sometimes changes its dress and tells tales."

The correct answer is: "Because every man should have one of his own and not be running after his neighbor's."

Quality Not Quantity.

"One girl, I hope you don't content yourself with one girl," sneered the smart young man to another whose ideas were not quite so all embracing.

The latter looked a little cowed and without doubt would have felt called to join in with his "more advanced" friend when a kindly old Quaker lady who was near came to his rescue with so pleasant a smile that even the first speaker could not be offended.

"Perhaps thy friend's girl is so good and has so many fine qualities that he does not need but one. There may have been satisfied with the windfalls and she knows it takes a great many windfalls to make even one that is perfect. There should be very careful in selecting thy girl. Much trouble has been caused by a careless selection. Then there should be so proud of thy judgment that they will stand by it. Less girls and better, my young friend."

Look on the Other Side.

A woman who does not fear to attack anything, undertook to repair a screen door lock in which the key had become broken. As everyone knows, it costs more to buy a key than it does a whole lock and key of that kind. The woman very prudently thought she would invest in the entire lock and key and as the new and old one were almost exactly alike all that had to be done was to remove the key side of the old one and put a new one on in the same place.

Here is where a difficulty appeared. The lock fitted all right but it locked on the back side. She returned to the hardware store to get one of the right kind. The dealer gave her a pitying glance and said, "Take out the key and turn it over and put the key in the lock on the other side."

The Unexpected.

Clergymen sometimes get answers they do not expect, even from children. One of them was questioning a Sunday school class about the man who fell among thistles on the way from Jerusalem to Betanage. The story to a point, he asked:

"Now, why did the priest and Levite pass by on the other side?"

A scholar held out his hand.

"Well, my boy, why did the priest and the Levite pass on the other side?"

"I know," said the lad, "because the man was already robbed."

Better Imagined than Described.

A Norway woman keeps her hats on a shelf in the closet. Sunday when she took down her "best bonnet" for church she discovered something had torn some of the paper on the shelf and placed it in a veil that was lying on the shelf by her hat. She was going to put on her head. She stopped a minute to investigate when from the little round hole of the lining at the top of the crown of the hat out jumped a mouse.

Not the Kind of Soap She Sold.

The following story was handed in for publication:

One of our well-known citizens was accosted by a little girl, the other day, who requested him to buy soap. When asked what kind of soap she was selling, she answered, "O, any kind."

"Very well," was the reply, "Give me a bar of soft soap."

The child gazed at him blankly for a moment and then turned away with a look in her eyes, to find a customer less witty and more ready to help her to win the prize for which she was working.

The Best There Is.

Many people are over careful about letting the night air get into their sleeping rooms, which reminds us of an old doctor. Going into the stired room of a patient, one evening, he threw open a window to let in the air, when the members of the family remonstrated against the idea of the invalid's breathing the night air.

"Best air there is, dammit," replied the vexed doctor, who found it difficult to understand why people should think it more wholesome to breathe the fetid air of a close and stuffy sick room than the pure air of heaven, night or day.

Important to Mothers.

The manufacturers of Castoria have been compelled to spend hundreds of thousands of dollars to familiarize the public with the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. This has been necessitated by reason of pirates counterfeiting the Castoria trade-mark.

This counterfeiting is a crime not only against the proprietors of Castoria, but against the growing generation. All persons should be careful to see that Castoria bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher, if they would guard the health of their children, ought and mothers in particular, ought to carefully examine the Castoria advertisement which have been appearing in the paper, and to remember that the wrapper of every bottle of genuine Castoria bears the fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher, under whose supervision it has been manufactured continuously for over thirty years.—[Philadelphia Bulletin.]

At Bridgton Station, Friday morning of last week, a little past midnight, the watchman, Alonzo Gray, had an encounter with three men supposed to be burglars. A number of shots were fired. They escaped in a hand car that was afterwards found where they dumped it in the Saco river about 16 miles from there. A set of tools were found which they had taken from the section car house.

Mme. Blauvelt.

Game Warden Travel Miles to Arrest Famous Soprano.

Not long ago guides from around Deer pond came with stories of a log cabin in the great forests beyond Eustis, where the campers were holding deer captive.

The camp was built for Lillian Blauvelt Pendleton, a year ago, and this season with a party of ladies and gentlemen she has been spending the summer here. Immediately after the guides reported the warden organized an expedition to go to this camp and arrest the lawbreakers. What they found there made them feel that they had been on a fool's errand. Madame Blauvelt said of her camp life:

"One morning when I went down to the shore to wash my face, knee-deep in the water was a young fawn. He looked at me and, entranced, I looked at him. I sat down on a rock and began to talk to him. In return he splashed his baby horns in the water and tried to frighten me away. At last I began throwing him green leaves and grass, and finally he consented to nibble at leaves on the end of a sapling I held out to him."

"When I was gone he trotted away. But late that afternoon we saw him inspecting the camp from the hill, and finally he came down to the cabin and looked us over. In two or three days he was so tame that he hung around the camp all the time. We had to shut the dog up. We got tired of the fawn after a week or so and tried to drive it away, but it wouldn't go. He would come stalking into camp any time of night or day, and I suppose lay to the report of the gun he was holding deer in captivity. Some guide saw the deer around the campfire, and later the game warden, armed to the teeth, appeared in our camps."

Deer Held Campers Captives.

Mme. Blauvelt laughed at the recollection. "We understand," said the warden, "that you are holding deer in captivity in your camp and we have come to arrest you and to set the animals at liberty. There is a heavy fine and imprisonment. Are you from Montana?"

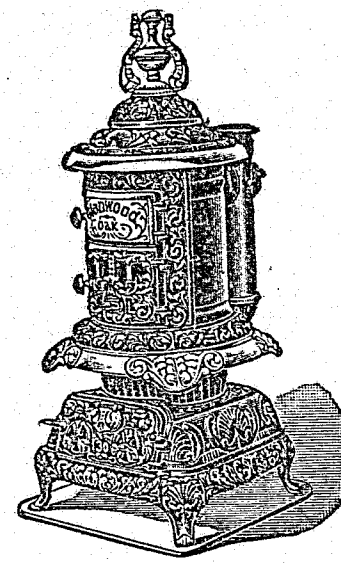

"We are from New York City," said Mr. Pendleton. "And as for holding deer captives—there is the deer down there by the campfire. If you will take him off our hands we'll thank you. We can't let our dog out for fear he'll kill him and get us into trouble. We can't shoot him. We can't do anything. Hold him captive! He is holding us captive. There he is, take him."

"The deputy went down, and looked him over. He was not tied, and went up and smiled at the deputy's rifle. The warden got a stick and tried to drive him out of camp. He wouldn't go. He ran round and round a tree, while we laughed. At last the warden gave it up and apologized to us."

"After he and his men had eaten a good dinner they went, leading the young fawn after them with a rope, and promising to release him ten miles from camp. It was two days before the fawn appeared again, and when we left the camp the last thing we saw was our 'captive deer' looking after us in a melancholy way from the open space in front of the log house."

"No, we were not arrested, but we know what would have happened to us had we shot any deer, or held them captive."

Hot Time at Moran's.
There was quite a scene made in Patrick Moran's boarding house at Rumford Falls and three young men are now under bonds to answer for the trouble.

Paul Daley says he went there with a friend to visit another acquaintance and that when he got there Moran ordered him from the house. Daley came back about half past six and brought his brother Pete and a friend named Walsh. This is Daley's story.

Moran testified that Daley came there Sunday and that he (Moran) ordered him out. Daley went out, meekly cursing and threatening him and inviting him to fight. He came back in the evening with Pete Daley and Walsh and that they started a row. During the row Walsh drove his fist through the glass in the door and some of the glass hit one of Moran's daughters in the head and she had been in convulsions since as a result of the shock.

Seven eye witnesses were sworn and testified substantially the same as above. The defendants claimed that as soon as they went down to supper they were ordered out of the house by Moran and called vile names.

Welsh says he did not put his fist through the window but that during the row he broke the pane with his back. Judge Johnson thought the evidence did not hold together very well and found probable cause and held them for the grand jury in $300 bonds. This is a pretty mixed up affair and will probably be interesting when the case comes before the court.

Other Police News.—John Shea was arrested last week Sunday on Rumford Avenue for being drunk. Fined $14.42 before Judge Johnson and stands committed until paid.

Herbert Walker was brought before Justice of the Peace Morrison last Thursday morning for drunkenness. Fined $13.16, which he paid.

"Giant" Bur was before the court on the same charge. He was fined $10.16 and paid.

Round Mountain Grange.

In response to invitations sent to Bear Mountain and Bethel Granges, Round Mountain patrons had the pleasure of welcoming thirty patrons from Bear Mountain and six from Bethel. A reception committee consisting of sisters Evie Hutchinson and Fern Johnson, brothers George Cummings and Ray Wardwell were appointed to look after the welfare of the guests.

The forenoon was devoted to business and remarks for the good of the order. A recess was declared and all repaired to the vestry, where all regaled themselves at the bountiful laden tables.

In order that all might enjoy the fun, the toasts were not responded to until all had again assembled including many friends as the meeting was open until after the program had been enjoyed.

Brother J. A. Kimball responded to "Our State" in a very happy manner. The truth is brother "Jim" always raises a laugh, and he sat down protesting that he felt uncertain as to the "state" of his stomach.

Brother Hamlin, Master of Bear Mountain Grange, responded to "Our State Grange." We are all glad to listen when brother Hamlin speaks for we are sure of being benefitted. He rather congratulated himself on escaping what brother Monroe tackled with commendable valor.

Sister Chapman of Bethel Grange responded to "Round Mountain Grange" in a beautiful manner. Her geniality is so contagious that we feel as though a lovely southern breeze had been wafted for our special benefit.

"The Sisters" was responded to by brother Monroe of Bear Mountain Grange. Brother Monroe arose amid applause and when he sat down the "girls" were all smiling at him as sweet as honey. Praise on eh? What d'ye s'pose?

"Our Guests" was responded to by sister Judkins. Sister Judkins voiced the sentiments of Round Mountain Grange in a few expressive, well chosen words.

It augurs well for a Grange when the Master will lead his flock as did brother Hamlin and brother Bean, and we were glad of the encouraging talks given by them. We were honored indeed by the effort made and the presence of brother and sister Chapman, who are far advanced in years. They are two of the three left of the charter members of Bethel Grange. Sister Monroe gave a beautiful rendering of sacred music.

Below is the program which was carried out in part. Owing to the enforced absence of brother L. L. Kimball the instrumental music by Messrs. Kimball was regrettably omitted. Lilla Cummings, organist.

King's Evil

That is Scrofula.

No disease is older.

No disease is really responsible for a larger mortality.

Consumption is commonly its outgrowth. There is no excuse ever for neglecting it, it makes its presence known by so many signs, among which are glandular tumors, cutaneous eruptions, inflamed eyelids, sores, rickets, catarrh, wasting and general debility.

John Brearley, Potter Hill, R. I., had a "large scrofulous bunch" in his neck; the little son of Mrs. Minnie Spear, Parishville, N. Y., had a "large scrofulous sore"; the little grandson of A. E. Withers, Longview, Ark., "had scrofula very bad."

They were all cured, according to voluntary testimonials, by which has effected the most wonderful, radical and permanent cures of scrofula in old and young.

We notice that the great event in Norway as published in the Norway Advertiser of Feb. 22, 1855, was the lecture of Horace Greeley. The subject was Education. One of the columns in the paper was devoted to reporting it and describing the speaker.

At that time the removal of the court buildings from Paris Hill to South Paris was agitating the people. A petition to the Legislature signed by Henry R. Parsons and two hundred and ninety others was published with all the legal attachments.

Another lecture before the Norway Lyceum was by Sylvanus Cobb, Jr., subject, "The Nations of Asia." This, it said, was to be followed by one by Wm. Wirt Virgin. The subject to be announced.

Big Business at the Corn Shop.
The season has practically closed at the H. F. Webb Co. canning factory. The last of the apples were packed, last Saturday night, and all that remains to be done is to label the cans. This has been the busiest year for a long time and an average of 30 hands have been employed at this one factory.

The company has packed about 550,000 cans of corn, nearly 14,500 cans of beans, and about the usual number of beans and succotash.

D. M. French had charge of the entire plant, this season, including the shipping. Now that the packing has finished for the season he has put the crew at work labeling cans.

The whole lot and the lower store or shipping rooms were packed solid with cans, but all these have been used and besides this three men have been kept busy making them.

The Pappoose fox hunting party returned home the first of this week. They had beautiful weather and a splendid time but captured only one fox. This piece of fur has a probable market value of nine shillings and the expense of getting it was as near as we can figure it close on to a hundred dollars, but then the hunters say they got full value for their outlay in hearing the dogs sing and being out in the open air. They had five dogs and lost one that came from Yarmouth. It will probably turn up in a day or two.

Across the Continent.

Jenny H. Pierce, well known in this town although she has been a resident here for a number of years, writes us the following letter of her trip from her home in New York city to Spokane, Washington.

Spokane, Wash., Oct. 22, 1901.

Editor Advertiser, Norway, Me.

DEAR SIR: My friend, Mrs. S. P. Locke of West Paris, and I have had a glorious trip across the continent.

We visited the Exposition at Buffalo and were there when President McKinley died. Then we stopped in Chicago, also at the Grand Canyon in Arizona, leaving the Santa Fe main line and taking an independent road for sixty-six miles. The Canyon is 300 miles long and of tremendous width and depth. Descending into it to the Colorado river, we rode mules and the trail was so narrow that a misstep would send one rolling down the precipice. Then we visited Bernardino, Pasadena, Los Angeles, Santa Barbara in Southern California, leaving the Pacific ocean, then San Francisco, the grand Yosemite valley and big trees, Portland, Oregon, and then this place. We leave here, Nov. 2d, returning by Denver, where we stop awhile and then, planning to arrive in New York city about the 20th of November. Yours very truly,

JENNY H. PIERCE.

Mrs. L. A. Harris, a Prominent Member of a Chicago Woman's Political Club, tells how Ovarian Troubles may be Cured without a Surgical Operation. She says:

"Doctors have a perfect craze for operations. The minute there is any trouble, nothing but an operation will do them; one hundred dollars and costs, and included in the costs are pain, and agony, and often death.

"I suffered for eight years with ovarian troubles; spent hundreds of dollars for relief, until two doctors agreed that an operation was my only chance of life. My sister had been using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for her troubles, and been cured, and she strongly urged me to let the doctors go and try the Compound. I did so as a last resort; used it faithfully with the Sanative Wash for five months, and was rejoiced to find that my troubles were over and my health restored. If women would only try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound first, fewer surgical operations would occur."—MRS. L. A. HARRIS, 278 East 31st St., Chicago, Ill.

To Prevent Catching Cold

Keep Your Lungs Warm During the Day, and Your Feet Warm During the Night.

To keep your lungs warm you want one of our flannel or chamolins lung protectors, or better still a chamolins lung protector jacket to be worn next the person. Made for men, women and children in sizes and shapes to fit everybody from a baby to the largest man. Probably we have your size on hand, but if we don't we will get it for you. Prices according to size and quality.

To keep your feet warm you want one of our nice soft rubber hot water bottles. These are better than soapstones because they hold heat longer, won't burn the bedclothes and are soft to the feet. Sizes from two quarts up. Prices according to size and quality.

If you use the lung protector and the hot water bottle the chances are that you won't catch cold. But if you do catch cold, don't forget that great remedy, Stone's Cough Syrup, 25c a bottle.

THE NOYES DRUG STORE,

IN THE WINTER.

(Benson's Plaster Is Pain's Master.)

For coughs and colds Benson's Plaster is an incomparably better remedy than any other—external or internal. Their medicinal properties enter the skin and go straight to the seat of the disease.

They relieve and cure a "seated" cold without disturbing the system or upsetting the stomach. Cough mixtures often make a cold worse.

Benson's Plaster is medicinal in the highest degree, and quickest to act. Placed on the chest or back or on both at once in serious cases, the good effect is felt immediately. The congested vessels, the cough abates and the breathing improves. Lung or bronchial affections or kidney disease, are cured with the least possible suffering and loss of time.

Benson's Plaster is immeasurably superior to Belladonna, Stramonium, Capsicum or any other combination in plaster form. They are also preferable to ointments, liniments and salves.

Benson's Plaster has received the highest awards over all competitors; and more than 5,000 physicians and druggists have declared them to be one of the most trustworthy household remedies. For sale by all druggists, or we will prepare postage on any number ordered in the United States on receipt of 25c. each.

Be sure you get the genuine. Accept no imitation or substitute.
